Uniting the church, Transforming the city

Greetings,

What's driving you in 2024? At FORCLT, we are fueled by a vision for the flourishing of this great city. This is going to keep us anchored in our purpose to unite the Church to transform our city.

We are grateful for all of the ways we can gather to live out our purpose. As some of our biggest supporters in this city, we want to share about three gatherings with you:

Imagine a room filled with pastors and CMPD leaders united in prayer for Charlotte. At a recent meeting hosted by the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association Disaster Response Team, that vision became reality.

This team has been meeting monthly, not to strategize or debate, but to lift each CMPD officer by name in prayer. Many in attendance are former law enforcement officers, now ministers offering support and understanding after challenging experiences.

The stories shared were both heartbreaking and inspiring, revealing a side of our city that many of us never see. It's a reminder that behind the badge lies a human being, deserving of our compassion and prayers.

If you're a pastor or prayer leader who feels called to support first responders in Charlotte, please reach out! Let's stand together, united in Christ and love for our city.

The graphic features a light blue background with a city skyline. On the left, a dark blue rounded rectangle contains the event details. In the center, two hexagonal frames show portraits of Alan Hirsch and Rob Kelly. On the right, a blue rounded rectangle shows the book 'Metanoia' on a tablet, smartphone, and print edition.

Have you ever attended a FORCLT Leader Roundtable gathering? These are unique opportunities for us to learn, connect, and take action with some of the most brilliant, spirit-filled minds in our city.

In just a few short weeks, we are excited to host our first Leader Roundtable gathering of the year led by Alan Hirsch and Rob Kelly. These pastors and authors will unpack the concept of “Metanoia: God's radical transformation for individuals, churches, and organizations.”

Have you ever attended a FORCLT Leader Roundtable gathering? These are unique opportunities for us to learn, connect, and take action with some of the most brilliant, spirit-filled minds in our city.

In just a few short weeks, we are excited to host our first Leader Roundtable gathering of the year led by Alan Hirsch and Rob Kelly. These pastors and authors will unpack the concept of “Metanoia: God's radical transformation for individuals, churches, and organizations.”

Pastors, leaders, dreamers – this event is for you. There is a good reason “Metanoia” was among the first words spoken by Jesus after His baptism.

This concept represents a spiritual reset that we still have access to today. When you grasp this concept, it can help transform you and the way you approach business or ministry.
